Sylvia A. Law is the Elizabeth K. Dollard Professor of Law, Medicine and Psychiatry at NYU Law School and now a Visiting Professor at the Burns Medical School and Richardson Law School. In the 1960's, as a legal services lawyer she served as counsel on Goldberg v. Kelly and Shapiro v. Thompson. In the early 1970s she was the Staff Director of the University of Pennsylvania Health Law Project. She has also litigated many important cases on issues of women's rights and reproductive equality and has written scores of books and articles on poverty, health care and equality.

Steve Hitov is the Managing Attorney of the Washington, D.C. office of the National Health Law Program. During his more than 30 years in legal services, Steve has supervised clinical education programs at Harvard and Western New England Schools of Law, and has served as a staff attorney, managing attorney or litigation director in programs in New York, Massachusetts and Florida. His areas of concentration have included government benefits, with a special emphasis on Medicaid, disability rights, homelessness issues, community development work and migrant farm worker representation. He is the author of several book chapters and articles on the rights of the poor, and has often engaged in class action litigation and multi-forum advocacy to insure that our governmental systems recognize and observe those rights.
